Open Air, Insert Space

In the forest, a canopy is nature's balcony to the sky. What's overhead is as important as the moss and ferns at ground level, Canopy helps you create spaces that speak to the mind and feed the soul. Warm, comforting sanctuaries that beckon us from screen time to "green time." Where open air becomes just as much a part of the design equation as the floor underfoot.

Canopy is Cradle to Cradle Certified™ silver, designed with a rigorous framework for environmental and social responsibility. Products like Canopy that are designed for the circular economy positively impact people and our planet, with safe, healthy materials and an end-of-life guarantee through our re[TURN]™ program. Canopy is manufactured in facilities that are 100% carbon neutral.

Benefit from the Outside In

Canopy brings a soft, organic feel to your environment. The layering of structures and natural, biophilic elements highlight the patterns while adding textural nuances. Patterns and textures echo those we find under nature's real canopy to bring about a strong sense memory of calm.

The four 9 × 36 inch styles, Preserve, Wildwood, Weathered and Weathered Color are about luxurious texture, detail and dimension. Scale and contrast create drama and depth at floor level, much like the sunlight filtering through nature's own canopy. These styles bring to life colors and textures inspired by the microclimates and seasons of the Southwest and Pacific Northwest. The popular plank format offers design flexibility for herringbone and boxed-in installations.

Spaces That Join Us

The Canopy system of products are designed to seamlessly coordinate with hard surface and rugs to provide whole space biophilic tactility.

Quiet areas use neutral colors and subtle installation methods, while collaborative zones add impact through color, pattern and installation methods. Activating the brain for creativity.

5 Breakout
